Terrie Campbell

Terrie is currently the Chief Executive Officer at Esquire Deposition Solutions, LLC. Her promotion to lead the organization comes after joining the company as Chief Operating Officer early 2015 with the goal of driving improved and consistent operating practices for the organization. As CEO, Terrie is committed to premium client care and the orchestration of all areas within the organization to achieve optimum effectiveness allowing true innovation within the deposition management industry.

Specialties:

Change Management, Operational Process/Methodology Design, Output Management and Optimization, Vertical Solutions, Strategic Design, Innovation and Generational Workforce Behaviors

Description of Presentation:

Terrie Campbell will discuss how today's workforce demographics are impacting law firms. She will delve into the characteristics of millennials, in particular their strive for balance and flexibility in their work and life. This past year, with the rise of the #MeToo movement and more and more discussion about the impact of "law firm life" on mental health issues, it has become apparent that millennials may have started the discussion of work/life balance ….but, this movement transcends all generations. During her presentation, Terrie will discuss the current issues of work/life balance at law firms and how developing a "personal northstar" can guide your prioritization decision making to aid both professional and personal success.